

Covenant University Newsflash

A weekly update of News and Events in Covenant University January 4-8, 2016

Covenant University's Faculty, Staff Charged on Commitment as Omega Semester Begins

The Chaplain, Pastor Charles Ihekwa

Faculty and Staff of Covenant University have been charged to be more committed to their

The Chaplain of the University, Pastor Charles Ihekwa, gave the charge various assignments for outstanding accomplishment as the University resumed for the Omega (Second) Semester of the 2015/2016 Academic Session.

while speaking on 'Commitment' at the Resumption Assembly on Monday, January 4, 2016 to usher in the new semester. "Every outstanding accomplishment is traceable to commitment", he said.

Pastor Ihekwa explained further that the level of commitment would define the extent of accomplishments. He added that work is a must for anything to work. "Nothing enhances worth like work. It takes productive lifestyle to enhance our worth. Success is not transferable; it takes personal

Contd. on Pg 2

Students Urged to Think of Unlimited Possibilities in Omega Semester

The Chancellor, Covenant University, Dr. David Oyedepo, has urged the students to think of unlimited possibilities around them and believe God in order to achieve their set goals in the New Year.

The Chancellor, represented by the Chaplain, Covenant University, Pastor Charles Ihekwa, gave the advice at the opening Assembly for the students on Monday, January 4, 2016 to commence the Omega (Second) Semester of the 2015/2016 Academic Session.

Dr. Oyedepo added that the students should expect the impossible to become possible through the manifestation of God. He stressed the fact that God's word never return void.

In his words, "What you do not expect, you can never experience. Also, understand that God is not prodigal with words, whatever He means, He will surely do. Think of the unlimited possibilities this Omega Semester and believe God for the best,"

Cross-Section of the Students at the Assembly

The Vice-Chancellor, Covenant University, Professor Charles Ayo, in his remarks, welcomed students back on

Contd. on Pg 2

Covenant University's Faculty, Staff Charged on Commitment as Omega Semester Begins Contd. from Pg 1

responsibility to be successful.”

The University Chaplain encouraged everyone to sustain the tempo of the God factor that makes Covenant University outstanding among other universities in the country. He also advised everyone to see challenges as opportunity for research.

The Vice-Chancellor, Professor Charles Ayo, while welcoming everyone to the New Year and Semester, advised that they should exhibit the “Joy of a New Beginning,” stressing that they should forget the past and move forward.

Professor Ayo noted that the year is symbolic in many respect as it marks the fourth year of running with the 'Vision 10:2022'. He requested for a great improvement in the area of research and entrepreneurial development in order to compete with other Ivy League universities.

“The University is mindful of your labour of love and I pray that the Lord will reward everyone bountifully”, Professor Ayo prayed.

The Faculty and Staff in attendance also thanked God for His faithfulness and fulfillment of prophecy in the year 2015 and prayed for new levels for the University.

Students Urged to Think of Unlimited Possibilities in Omega Semester

Contd. from Pg 1

campus and encouraged them to settle down quickly in all areas and get ready for their primary assignment. He urged the students to adhere strictly to the rules and regulations of the University for the fulfillment of their glorious destiny.

The general assembly also rendered songs of praise and offered prayer of thanksgiving to appreciate God for the success of the last Semester. They also prayed for a glorious

O m e g a Semester and the New Year.

Also at the event were the Deputy Vice-Chancellor, Professor Taiwo Abioye, Registrar Pastor O l a m i d e Olusegun, other principal officers, Deans of Colleges, Heads of Departments and Unit, Staff of the Chaplaincy, Faculty and Staff.